TDECUCU Named 2025 USA TODAY Top Workplace

TDECUCU is honored to announce that it has earned a 2025 USA TODAY Top Workplaces Award. The award recognizes organizations with 150 or more employees that have created exceptional, people-first cultures.

Winners of the 2025 USA TODAY Top Workplaces Awards are determined by an anonymous employee survey conducted by Energage, an HR research and technology company. The results are calculated based on employee responses to statements about their workplace experiences, which are proven indicators of high performance.

“This award is a testament to our teammates’ commitment to creating a wonderful work experience through collaboration and care,” TDECUCU Chief Human Capital Officer Qiara Suggs said. “A positive work environment doesn’t just empower our employees. It radiates outward, shaping how we serve and support our members.”

TDECUCU is supported by over 700 employees, who service more than 396,000 members.

Suggs says exceptional member experiences begin with exceptional employee experiences. The credit union expects to move into a new office in the Galleria area towards the end of 2025. The facility was built with its employees in mind, incorporating feedback to create a space that will foster continued growth and achievement.

The credit union also invests in its employees through a competitive health benefits package, 401K match, flexible working arrangements, and tuition reimbursement for full and part-time employees.
